Quaker Houghton Breaks Ground on New Manufacturing Facility in China

CONSHOHOCKEN, PA (July 11, 2024) /PRNewswire/ – Quaker Houghton ("the Company"; NYSE: KWR), a global leader in industrial process fluids, today celebrated breaking ground on its new state-of-the-art manufacturing facility in Zhangjiagang, China. The new facility will expand the Company's production capabilities to support the growth of its customers and the Company in the Asia-Pacific region. The Zhangjiagang, China facility, which combines industry-leading technology with Quaker Houghton's long history of manufacturing excellence and safety, is expected to be operational by the second quarter of 2026.

"We are thrilled to break ground on our new manufacturing facility in Zhangjiagang, China and we really appreciate the support and partnership with the Zhangjiagang Municipal Government," said Jeff Fleck, Chief Supply Chain Officer at Quaker Houghton. "This facility will be a critical part of our global supply chain, reinforcing our position as a market leader in industrial process fluids."

Joseph Berquist, Chief Commercial Officer at Quaker Houghton, adds: "We have built a strong presence in China and across Asia Pacific in support of key industrial sectors such as steel, aluminum, automotive, beverage can, mining, and wind power. This strategic investment further underscores our commitment to meet the growing demands of our customers in China and throughout the Asia-Pacific region. We are excited about the positive contributions we are making to support the strong economic growth and development in the region."
